WASHINGTON — The "Whitehats," a pickup team of undersea sailors, were undisputed baseball champions of the North Pole today.

The enlisted men of the U.S. nuclear submarine Seadragon, who helped guide the ship to the pole through the legendary Northwest Passage, beat the ship's officers, 13-10, in the first ball game ever played at the top of the world.

The ball game was the first order of business after the sub surfaced at the pole shortly before midnight Thursday.

Macon, Ga.—Patsy Stevens, 10 years old, wants to die at home.

"I know God will get me an oxygen tent tonight," she told her father. It was hard for her to say the words, because without extra oxygen Patsy finds it terribly hard to breathe.

The child is suffering from cystic fibrosis of the pancreas for which there is no known cure. After seven operations she was finally told the truth—that there is no hope for her.

Her only response was: "If I've got to die, I'd rather die at home."

A Macon firm donated an oxygen tent for Patsy to use as long as she needs it.

Pamphlet Labelled Propaganda

VANCOUVER (CP)—President Allan Ainsworth of the B.C. Progressive Conservative Association Thursday night said a pamphlet issued by the highway department to motorists at lower mainland toll crossings is a piece of Social Credit political propaganda.

The pamphlet, "The Lower Mainland Traffic System," contain pictures of highways, 11 river crossings and a ferry service all established during the last seven years.

Mr. Ainsworth said some copies of the pamphlet had statements added calling for election of Social Credit candidates.

"If it was paid for by the taxpayer, that candidates names appeared on it represents a scandalous misuse of public funds," he said. Candidates named on the pamphlet included Health Minister Martin and Bert Price, both seeking re-election in Vancouver Burrard.

If it was published by the Social Credit League, it violates the election act because it does not carry the party's name," Mr. Ainsworth said in a statement.

"Whoever published it, it is a scandal that civil servants at toll gates were made to hand it out," he said.

Kenneth E. Arnold, 132 Ontario, was fined $75 today in city police court on a charge of assaulting a police officer.

Deputy Magistrate J. A. Byers imposed the fine rather than a prison term, which could be as much as two months, in view of a favorable government intended to take probation report and absence control of all airfields and ports in the Congo.

SANTA BARBARA, Calif.—The note read: "This is a stick-up—hand over all the money and don't make a sound."

Bank teller Mary Miller read it and looked up. But there was nobody in front of her.

ALREADY CARRIED OUT: TISDALE

Opposition Promises Tardy

The CCF platform in the CCF member for Kaslo-Slocan in the current election campaign can, in the last legislature, does not conform to the beliefs of its "more prominent members," Saanich Social Credit candidate John Tisdalle said Thursday night.

Mr. Tisdalle told a campaign meeting in the Brentwood Women's Institute Hall that the CCF's pledge to pay all school operating costs and half the capital costs is "inconsistent" with a statement made by Randolph Harding,

COLUMBIA

Mica Creek will create storage and generate a major block of electricity.

B.C. from the outset of the negotiations, said it would not allow the construction of any dams in the East Kootenays. Over the strenuous objections of Ottawa, this policy will be carried into the agreement.

On this issue, the negotiations almost collapsed on two occasions.

B.C. negotiations said they could never sign an agreement committing the province to build dams in the East Kootenays, and registered their adamant opposition to the Bull River-Luxor-Dorr complex of dams.

B.C. took the stand that the agricultural potential of the East Kootenay Valley must be maintained. It said creation of a huge storage pool in the valley would hinder transportation, flood valuable land and bury mineral wealth.

MANY REASONS

Ottawa wanted the East Kootenay dams for a variety of reasons. Most important, it felt that the Columbia would never reach its full potential without diversion of the Kootenay.

Federal negotiators capitulated in the belief that the agreement now ready for signing is better than no agreement.

One of the consequences of B.C.'s stand is a go-ahead to the U.S. to build its long-sought Libby Dam, at Libby, Montana. The Americans need a big dam on the Kootenay to prevent disastrous flooding.

UNECONOMICAL

Since B.C. has refused to provide the needed flood control through the East Kootenay diversion dams, Libby will have to be built, although it has been shown to be an uneconomical project in several engineering studies.

Once Libby is in, Canada will be prevented forever from diverting the Kootenay, and making use of its flood waters over the full length of the Columbia River in Canada.

Once the agreement is signed by the three governments concerned, it will have to be ratified by the B.C. legislature, the federal parliament, and the U.S. senate.

Lumumba accused the Belgians of "sealing" the diamond wealth of Kalonji's "mining state" in Kasai Province.

Kasai provides more than 90 per cent of all the industrial diamond potential in the Congo.

Lumumba reiterated that his months, in view of a favorable government intended to take probation report and absence control of all airfields and ports in the Congo.

VANCOUVER (CP)—A Vancouver doctor, who lived as a recluse for three years in a downtown rooming house, left $166,686 to his three unmarried sisters in Prince Edward Island.

Dr. Percy Lorne Lavers was found dead July 14. Police broke into his locked room when his landlady came alarmed at not seeing him.

She did not know that 78-year-old man was wealthy. He lived in a $9-a-week room. Eighteen other men lived in the same block.

Dr. Lavers' fortune, including $171,717 cash was un-covered in 32 bank accounts and a safety deposit box.

Sole beneficiaries are Pearl, Florence and May Lavers of Georgetown, P.E.I.

SCHOOL TAX RELIEF

Continued from Page 1 by day labor arrangements or cost-plus schemes instead of competitive bids. There might be some help from there.

The point is that all you have to do is make up your mind that this is a project which is important. Then it is just a matter of adjusting the provincial budget to take care of it.

The Liberal party is the only one that has pledged to carry this out.

Mr. Macfarlane said that since Social Credit assumed power in 1952, taxes in B.C. have increased about 125 per cent but population has gone up only 38 per cent.

Contingent liabilities against the province which Mr. Macfarlane said was "the real provincial debt," now total $553,000,000 and could go up to $714,000,000 under present borrowing powers of government agencies.

NOT MAGIC

Bridges and roads have been built in the province, although many other important things have been ignored.

"We must realize they are not the products of a Social Credit magic, but the result of the payment of the highest taxes in Canada and the large borrowings that will be paid for by the people of B.C. and by no one else."

Mr. Macfarlane also deplored Social Credit George Murdoch's refusal to outline his position on the school costs question which he often had decided before joining the Socred party.

"Is he being controlled or can he speak for himself?" asked Mr. Macfarlane.

He also pointed out he was still prepared to speak at an all-candidate meeting although

BUT COURT CASE GOES AHEAD

Music Prodigy Pays Up

TORONTO (CP)—Musical prodigy Attila Galamb, who almost triggered a musicians' strike against the Canadian National Exhibition, has settled the dispute.

The six-year-old saxophonist has agreed to pay the $630 stand-in fee required by the Toronto Musicians' Association out of his own $750 fee.

The boy had intended to use the $750 to bring relatives from behind the Iron Curtain to Canada. The boy and his parents came from Hungary about five years ago.

BALKED

The CNE offered Attila $750 for 15 performances but balked at paying $45 a performance into the relief fund required by union agreement when a non-member performs.

More than 500 delegates to the Union to B.C. Municipalities voted for removal of the burden at last year's convention with only two opposing it—both Social Crediters including Ald. Elmer McEwen of Victoria.

So you can readily see that this is not a problem that the Liberal party has dreamed up," said Mr. Cox.

Government spokesmen have tried to throw a smoke-screen around the problem by "irresponsible statements." One of these was that local school board autonomy would be destroyed if all school costs were paid by the province.

Greater Victoria School Board chairman W. C. Gelling recently dispelled this notion, said Mr. Cox, by stating that he felt no concern on that score.

Another criticism has been voiced by that perpetual office-seeker, Waldo Skillings. He says the Liberal plan will only benefit the rich. As usual, his analysis of the situation leaves everything to be desired."

Mr. Cox used the $236 tax bill of Social Credit candidate Reeve George Murdoch as refutation of his claim.

"Now I don't think Mr. Murdoch would class himself among the rich," said Mr. Cox.

Yet, under the Social Credit plan Mr. Murdoch pays a net tax of $186 on his home but under the Liberal plan all of his $108 school tax would come off so that he would pay only $128.

Unemployment

THE LATEST FIGURES SHOW that in unemployment Canada faces something much more than the passing phenomenon, which the Government had hoped it would be. When unemployment rises at the peak of the summer season the prospects for the slack winter season are alarming.

It is no mere coincidence that unemployment has risen precisely when our exports have been falling, contrary to all official predictions last spring. A sudden spurt in exports during the first quarter of the year has been followed by a drop and then by the daunting unemployment figures of midsummer. This is not coincidence. In some degree at least it is cause and effect.

Some Canadians may suppose that because we earn only a fraction of our national income from exports they are not of primary importance. But an economy geared to exports in many regions like British Columbia cannot be properly judged by such figures.

The export industries may employ only a fraction of our people and produce a fraction of their wealth directly but indirectly they nourish all other industries. It is the logger, the mill worker, the miner, the farmer, the fisherman who supports the town and city, as we know so well here on Vancouver Island. Canada was always prosperous when its international trade was high, depressed when it was low.

In any case, the unemployment figures, denying all official forecasts, must convince the federal Government that something more than speeches will be needed to alter them.

Until July the Government insisted that the situation was steadily improving, as it appeared to be up to then, that no fundamental measures were required. Toward the end of the parliamentary session (doubtless having heard the July figures in advance) the Government finally agreed that unemployment was indeed a grave problem. After further study, it said, a series of new solutions would be offered, possibly at an autumn session of Parliament. This was a satisfactory advance in the Government's thinking. Now that it has got its mind around the size of the problem it is entitled to time for consideration. But it cannot have much time. The winter and the slack season are not far away.

Here we face problems of infinite complexity about which economists continue to quarrel—in Canada the peculiar problem of an economy generally prosperous but somehow unable to soak up pools of local unemployment in a few areas.

It would be absurd, of course, to say that the federal Government is responsible for these difficulties for they are inherent in the hangover of a long boom, in the changing techniques of production, in the excessive costs of many Canadian industries, in the sharp new competition of the world market, in the domestic consumer's resistance to high prices.

But the Government is certainly responsible for its early promises to solve all these problems quickly if it were only given the chance. It has had the chance and, up to now, has failed as it was bound to fail when it never tackled and hardly discussed fundamental causes, the most fundamental cause of all being that the Canadian economy has become non-competitive over wide areas, at home and abroad.

This sort of genial evasion can not go on much longer. Unemployment on its present scale, even though it affects relatively few Canadians, is economically ridiculous in a nation of our resources and assuredly for the Government it is politically intolerable.

The largest question in Canadian politics today, apart from foreign dangers, is how the Government intends to answer the complex of questions raised by the latest unemployment and trade figures which are so closely associated. The Government's answer will be awaited with interest.

Training in World Affairs

THE CARNEGIE ENDOWMENT for International Peace, assisted financially by the Rockefeller Foundation, has embarked on an experiment to which students of international affairs will look with hope.

The endowment has initiated a program of diplomatic training for foreign service officers of newly independent nations. Twenty-one fellows from Asia, Africa and the Caribbean have been selected for the courses to be given at the Columbia University School of International Affairs, the Graduate Institute of International Studies at Geneva and at Harvard.

Such Delicacy!

ATTORNEY GENERAL BONNER was asked at an election meeting to explain his handling of the 1956 forestry licence scandal in which after two years of prodigies from critics he finally laid certain bribery charges, some of which he has still not pressed to conclusion in the courts.

Which puts an awful lot of British Columbians into receivership.

Half a Billion Dollars in Contingent Debt, and the B.C. Public Must Pay It Off

FROM every platform and radio station these days we hear the cry "Social Credit has paid off B.C.'s debt. This releases lots of money for other things."

This is rather natural following the somewhat farcical bon-motting discussion by Premier Bennett at Kelowna last year.

But as it is election time and also time for sober reflection on the affairs of the province, let us examine just what Premier Bennett did with the province's debt.

To begin with it should be pointed out that election speakers and sloganists very loosely are dropping the word "direct" when they refer to what Mr. Bennett did. There is quite a distinction between "direct debt" and the general term "debt," as we shall see.

Now to the record.

First of all a brief explanation is necessary as to what the "pre-Social Credit" direct debt amounted to $22,000,000, consisted of.

It was made up of money that had been borrowed to finance the building of roads, bridges and ferries, of schools and public buildings of various sorts. A lot of it was to finance the losses of the Government's Pacific Great Eastern Railway and to start the public power commission; some even to pick up deficits of depression times and so forth.

Steadily, as business boomed after the Second War, sinking funds for all issues were provided and as they came due they were paid off, while other borrowings were made for new ventures as they arose.

Where the debt was incurred to finance revenue-producing projects such as toll bridges, ferries, the power commission and the PGE, the profits, if any, from these ventures went into government coffers and in one way or another were used as part of the consolidated revenue which took care of the debt charges.

In addition to this "direct debt" the previous Governments also carried "contingent liabilities." These were guarantees that were given for debts of certain specific projects which had their own special revenues designed to retire bonds when they came due. Among them was the B.C. Power Commission debt. After the first Government bonds which got the hydro started the policy was adopted of floating guaranteed power commission bonds rather than Government bonds. The idea of course was that the hydro runs as any other business and must finance itself.

Now let us examine what Mr. Bennett did.

His policy might be summed up briefly as follows: "We will do no more general borrowing on the overall credit of the province. All our borrowing will be done by specific Government agencies set up to do specific jobs. Then the Government will guarantee their loans and interest in full. If they don't make enough money to repay the loans the Government will pay them. If they do, it won't cost the Government a dime. In the meantime we will use our bulging revenues to pay off the general loans now outstanding."

How did this operate in practice?

O SAY CAN YOU SEE

Signs of the Times

THERE'S only one conclusion to be reached about sidewalk overhangs, billboards, rooftop displays and such forms of signs: nobody ever sees them. If people saw them, and noticed, what in total effect they do to the city, they would not stand for them. It's only when somebody raises the question, and points out the general appearance of a conflicting mass of signs of all sizes, colors and shapes, that the horror of it all becomes evident.

At the public meeting on the sign bylaw last Wednesday night Assistant City Engineer Rod Clack showed some colored slides taken around the city streets. They were very much like those shown by Lewis Crutcher, the Portland architect who brought some similar pictures up here a few months ago and startled everyone who saw them.

Mr. Clack's slides showed views of Douglas Street, Yates Street, and other parts of the city which have such a hodgepodge of signs hanging over the sidewalk—a regular mulligan of names, products and addresses—that, looking up the street, you can hardly read any of them. They're just an unhappy jumble—which is why probably not one person in a hundred ever raises an eye to them.

The engineers and planners who want the city to keep what charm it has and regain some of what it has lost over the years, recommend that hangover signs be replaced by attractive "façade" signs flat against the buildings, thus freeing the sidewalks of their overhead load.

They also want to relieve building roofs of their burden of hoardings, structural iron, guy wires and other unsightly stuff. And they want to restrict the use of the huge billboards which struggle out along the approaches to the city and spoil the whole effect for visitors and residents who would like to get away from such things.

Ten-Year Wait

The sign maker will go along with some of the proposals. But they balk at others. They want to extend the areas in which certain signs would be permitted, increase the allowable size and number of building wall signs, and generally free themselves to do the maximum amount of business. And they want a ten-year interim period before any new regulations can come fully into effect.

All that is natural enough. Everybody fights for his own interests, and has a right to do so. But where the total benefit of the community is involved, those charged with drawing up laws must recognize that the nearest, loudest voices are not the only ones to be heard. They make laws for the community, not for the individual, and the community's good must be the chief criterion.

The sign people present some good arguments. But they can't answer the argument of the photographs.

Rooftops with three or four huge signs that block each other, blatant displays that ruin the feel of the neighborhood in which they appear, styles of signs that spoil the vista of a street—these are things which should be looked at pretty closely to see what harm they are doing to the city as a whole.

Where a city is a tourist resort—and depends on its looks for its popularity—then to permit customs which ruin the attractiveness of the city is suicidal stupidity.

I can't help but feel that sign makers and the merchants who use their products are vastly over-rating the usefulness of their creations.

How many people can you name who have ever said anything favorable about a billboard? The almost universal reaction to a billboard, when there is any notice taken of it at all, is "Ugh! Why do they allow it?" or, "What a pity." I wonder if outdoor advertisers realize the quiet resentment they can build up over the years?

Overdoing It

Some building signs are just much too much too much. You can easily go too far with some things. The Greek orator Demosthenes spoke with pebbles in his mouth, but that's no excuse for getting rocks in the head.

When all the competing signs are of the same size and loudness, what's been gained but confusion and ugliness?

A tasteful, attractive sign over a store invites you in, just as a tasteful exterior says "Welcome."

A sign, too big and loud merely says "I'm cheap and noisy." A sign in a hopeless clutter of similar signs admits, "I'm only one in a crowd." Such signs can do their owner much more harm than good.

Similarly, an unattractive street made so by poor architecture and a mass of signs will, without their knowing quite why, discourage people from using it. And a city which has destroyed the appearance of its entrance with commercial outliers will get fewer return visitors than one which has used a little brains in its planning.

Who looks at signs? How many people who walk or drive along a downtown block twice a day all year, can tell you what commercial signs are displayed and what they look like? Very few, if any. That's not much of a return for the man who invests in a sign. And there's not much of a loss for the city that restricts them.

The fact is that today people will turn to the improved store front and the tasteful, small "exclusive-looking" sign. They feel that it offers something better. See how the crowds all over this continent patronize the malls, the streamlined shop fronts, the places with modern style.

An adequate bylaw will give merchants the impetus they need to install the 1960 style of sign, and clean up a lot of unsightly razzle-dazzle now existing. Stores will do better; the city centre, with the disfigurement of power poles and wiring also soon to be removed, will look immeasurably better, and Victoria might even become the attractive place which, without looking around very attentively, we've got into the habit of thinking it is.

DENNIS THE MENACE

Aug. 26, 1900 — Since 1897, 2,021 volumes have been purchased by the provincial library and 2,444 acquired by exchange while over 600 pamphlets have been added to library shelves.

Aug. 26, 1920 — It is incongruous that there is no direct news cable service between England and Canada, according to Sir Roderick Jones, managing director of Reuter's, visiting here.

Aug. 26, 1940 — London: The old church of St. Giles, and the statue of the blind poet, Milton, outside the church, were hit during German raids on the "city," the financial district.

In the public accounts for the year ending last March 31, released only last week, the total of all the "contingent liabilities" for which the Government is responsible is $555,000,000. It has no direct debt shown as such.

When Social Credit came to power in 1952, the direct debt was $222,000,000 and the contingent liabilities $80,000,000, a total of $302,000,000.

While the so-called "debt charges" of some $13,000,000 a year previously applied to direct debt have been eliminated, it is quite clear the Government through its school building grants and its subsidy to the toll authority is paying out more than $5,000,000 a year which, as already shown, is debt charges under another name. What the PGE's debt may be costing is not yet reported.

And the public of B.C., who are the taxpayers, will also have to pay through tolls, electric light rates, or freight and passenger charges on the PGE, the money required to liquidate the outstanding $555,000,000—which, by quick rule of thumb, will probably cost more than a billion over the term of the loans.

This should serve to dispel once and for all the phoney legend that "Social Credit wipes out debt."

vided for this purpose, running into many millions, came either from surplus revenue or from borrowings—but in either event it had its effect on the direct debt of the province, and was responsible in some measure for direct debt charges.

Mr. Bennett changed this. Instead of making direct grants to the schools, he told the school boards to borrow the entire cost of their buildings. Then the Government would guarantee the entire loan and would make yearly payments equivalent to half the sinking funds and interest required to pay off the loans. In a different formula he was doing exactly what the previous Government did—paying half the cost of the schools.

But under his plan he shows no direct debt charges for these payments. Instead, he provides the money through general grants to school districts for education. But whatever he calls it, this fund would provide a ready source of cash for a desperate treasury. With the stroke of a pen these funds could be used for general Government purposes and B.C. would be back in the direct debt business overnight. No one expects this to happen but it is still a bookkeeping possibility until the outstanding bonds have actually been paid off and cancelled.

Now, turning to the debt policy as it applies to schools. The previous Government adopted the plan of assisting school districts by paying half the cost of new school buildings. This money was handed out as direct grants. School districts floated their own bonds for the other half.

Now, regarding the toll highways and bridges, and ferries:

As has been explained the previous Government borrowed directly to finance these and then collected whatever profits the tolls provided to pay off the loans through consolidated revenue.

Mr. Bennett changed this by setting up a toll highways and bridges authority. Money for its ventures are borrowed in its own name, but with a Government guarantee.

Everyone will hope that the PGE gets into a fully profitable position, but in the meantime the public is fully responsible for its debts.

So far as B.C. Hydro Commission is concerned the Government pays nothing in the way of subsidy or allowances. It stands on its own feet as it was always expected to do.

In all the transactions affecting these various agencies the B.C. finance department acts as fiscal agent and does the actual floating of bonds. In other words it is in the debt business up to its ears.

In the public accounts for the year ending last March 31, released only last week, the total of all the "contingent liabilities" for which the Government is responsible is $555,000,000. It has no direct debt shown as such.

YOUR HEALTH

By DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ

Mental Disease

Emeritus Consultant in Medicine, Mayo Clinic and Emeritus Professor of Medicine, Mayo Foundation
At the recent Conference of the World Health Organization held in Finland it was said that in Europe 2,000,000 people are now confined in mental hospitals. Half of these have schizophrenia.

One of the two most common causes of a worker's absence from his or her job is a nervous trouble of some kind. The delegates emphasized the need for better treatment of neuroses and psychoses inside and outside hospitals, so that the patients can be sent back to work more quickly.

There is great need for educational facilities for handicapped children, so that some of them can be taught to do some useful work. There is great need also for the earlier recognition of mental illness. Not only do family doctors need to learn to recognize beginning insanity, but so also do the several specialists, and especially surgeons; also, school teachers, social workers, judges, and police officers.

The public must be informed about the tremendous need for better care of the mentally disturbed. Today, when a man is going insane, his family, because of their shame and their reluctance to have neighbors know of their plight, often keep the man away from a psychiatrist and a mental hospital. They keep asking doctors to put the man through one complete (and useless) examination after another, and when a surgeon suggests an operation, they are all for it; they are so anxious to find a cause for the disease—below the neck.

During recent years a number of able heart specialists have produced evidence to show that the man has just recovered from the shock of a heart attack is likely to do better sitting in a chair than lying in bed; and soon he will be better if he is made to walk about a bit.

Recently, Drs. M. C. Becker, J. G. Kaufman, and Wayne Vasey urged all persons who have recovered well from a heart attack to go back to supporting themselves again. The doctors believe this is better for the man, and it certainly will be better for the national economy.

As they say, there are 10,000,000 persons on this continent now troubled with heart disease, or the old scar of a heart attack, and if all these persons are to be refused the right to work, a staggering economic burden is going to be placed on the rest of us. Wives have to stop saying to a well-recovered husband, "Don't walk," or "Don't carry that brief case;" and employment managers must be taught that, according to many statistics, a man who has made a perfect recovery from a heart attack has a good chance of living for another 10 years. As long as he can turn out a good day's work, he should be allowed to keep at his job.

All students of the brain, and especially of its development through some millions of years, know that in man there are several parts to the organ, some very ancient, and some fairly recent. The other day, Dr. Paul B. McLean, of the National Institute of Mental Health, put this fact in simple speech. He said man has three brains: one down at the bottom, which is "basically reptilian." Another in the middle is inherited from the lower mammals, and the third or top brain is a late mammalian development. This is the one which, through its great development, has made man the thinking, tool-making, fire-using and speaking animal that he is.

Many people today are distressed when they have to pay heavily for a prescription. I am sure they often wonder why this cost is so large.

It worries me to see poor people having to pay so much for their medicines, but these days everything seems to be going up. As the officers of the great drug firms recently pointed out to the Kefauver Committee, much of the present-day expense of drugs is due to the enormous amount of research that commonly has to be done before a really wonderful drug is found. Then, much of the money made on the rare very successful drug has to pay for the work on the many drugs which at first looked hopeful, but soon turned out to have so many drawbacks that they had to be scrapped.

LONDON LETTER

Cronin—The Perfect Butler

LONDON—He was a frequent visitor to our local pub. A short, very dapper man with white hair, whom I took to be in his middle forties.

I never had much contact with him. He was the sort who kept himself to himself, invariably sitting in a far corner of the saloon bar with a lady friend. The only exchanges I had with him were when we happened to be at the counter ordering drinks at the same time and it never went beyond "Nice day" or, more appropriate this summer, "When do you think the rain will stop?"

And then what happens? I pick up the morning papers and there, plastered all over the front pages, are the headlines: Cronin—the Perfect Butler leaves the Royal Joneses . . . Margaret and Tony sack the butler . . . Tony loses Perfect Butler . . . etc.

And the picture that goes with the headline? Our friend in the corner seat of the pub.

Thomas Albert Cronin, I read, has left his new job as butler to Princess Margaret and Mr. Anthony Armstrong-Jones after only three weeks in Kensington Palace. "Tommy"—that's right. I'd overheard someone calling him Tommy.

Reyburn

He was previously, I read, butler to Mr. Jock Whitney, the American ambassador. That fit in. That explains why he came so often to our "local," because the American ambassador's residence is just down the road—the fabulous mansion Barbara Hutton built for herself back in the '30s on the edge of Regent's Park.

A fine newspaperman I am, I say to myself. The man a frequent visitor to the pub and I don't realize that he's the one hired as butler to the Royal Joneses.

Sure I had read that they had selected from a short list of six "perfect butlers" a man named Cronin, but I didn't connect it with the quiet little fellow who sat in the corner minding his own business.

The thing for me to do is to make amends is, of course, to find out right away what's behind it all. As applies to all such royal matters, the shutters are down. There are no public announcements, apart from the palace that they have nothing to say and Cronin refusing to say whether or not there had been a row.

Cronin is in a doubly difficult position (a) because it is not the done thing for a former royal employee to speak his mind, and (b) because a butler, of all people, must be very discreet, if he wishes further employment elsewhere.

But he has said that he "found Princess Margaret very charming." And you may take your lead from his emphasis on this.

SYNOPSIS—Most regions of British Columbia will have cool and cloudy weather over the next 24 to 48 hours with afternoon temperature remaining 10 to 15 degrees below the seasonal normals. The Queen Charlottes and northern mainland are expected to fare better than the rest of the province, however. Sunny skies prevail in those regions. Scattered showers are likely to develop over the interior and parts of the southern coast.

Greenhouse Jobs Due Now

With fall work outdoors starting in September, next week will be the last opportunity many of us will have in which to accomplish major jobs in the greenhouse.

Since we quest for lists of flowering plants for amateur houses received here are Hilda a few suggestions.

A number of half hardy bulbs may successfully be flowered in a greenhouse maintained free from frost during winter.

Among them are some which can be grown outdoors in gardens by salt water, or high enough never to be visited by frost during a normal winter.

These bulbs are usually mauve or purple, slightly scented and has shorter stems. None of these require to be buried, or put away in a dark place for rooting. I find quite sufficient to put the pots under the greenhouse bench, give them one watering, and wait for the green shoots.

If these bulbs are not at your dealers this year, you may like

5 WATCH OUT FOR SPIES, RUSSIANS TOLD

'Bditelnost' Is the Thing

MOSCOW (Reuters)—The other of the Soviet propaganda to Soviet citizens to be guard against foreign spies in their midst and the "disrupting" influence of the Russian Federation Communist Party committee, commented recently: "Every year, thousands of foreign tourists, journalists, students and sportsmen come to the Soviet Union. They are gladly met as guests and helped to get a correct impression of the Soviet Union and its people."

The code word of the campaign is "Bditelnost," the Russian word for vigilance.

It has been waged at different pitches on and off since the end of the war. But with the shooting down of the U.S. U-2 spy plane, the call for vigilance now is being made almost daily by some section or among tourists and trade delegations and carry out spy activities.

RAILWAY RATES

Timber Trade Talks Tariffs

Trade Minister Robert Bonner has called a special meeting of the timber trades in Vancouver today to discuss freight rates.

The meeting is considering the two major railway's proposal to restore differentials in rates between the coast and interior shipping points.

Mr. Bonner said the proposal to revert to 1955 rates "would result in increases in freight rates as high as 27 per cent to certain interior producers."

It would, however, leave coastal rates unchanged.

"Our rates are already too high," said Mr. Bonner.

A fine newspaperman I am, I say to myself. The man a frequent visitor to the pub and I don't realize that he's the one hired as butler to the Royal Joneses.

Sure I had read that they had selected from a short list of six "perfect butlers" a man named Cronin, but I didn't connect it with the quiet little fellow who sat in the corner minding his own business.

Cronin is in a doubly difficult position (a) because it is not the done thing for a former royal employee to speak his mind, and (b) because a butler, of all people, must be very discreet, if he wishes further employment elsewhere.

But he has said that he "found Princess Margaret very charming." And you may take your lead from his emphasis on this.

STILL GROWING Cumberland Extends Boundaries

CUMBERLAND — Village commission here has given third reading to a bylaw to extend the village boundaries, and has scuttled once again the claims that the old coal town finally is "finished."

It happened once before, when the ups and downs of coal caused many residents to leave, but shortly thereafter the schools were being enlarged to accommodate the children of families which had moved into the empty houses.

POLIO HITS BALL PLAYER

Thomas Junior Chalmers, well-known Courtenay baseball player, is in Royal Jubilee Hospital suffering paralytic polio.

The 35-year-old athlete is in "satisfactory" condition today, hospital officials reported, and does not require a respirator.

Involved is an arm and shoulder. He did not have Salk anti-polio vaccinations.

BEAUTIES COMPETE

Six Seeking Luxton Crown

One of six contestants will be crowned at Luxton fair grounds tonight to mark the opening of the entertainment program of the annual two-day Luxton fall fair.

They are Gail Dunn, Lorraine Ann Belsky, Gail Mills, Linda Acres, Barbara Buckley, and Beatrice Smith. The winner, to be announced at the ceremony, will be crowned by Andrea Williams, queen of the 1959 fair.

At 7.30 members of Victoria branch Canadian Folk Society, will start a one-hour program of folk dancing.

The grounds opened this afternoon with booths, midway, and a record 1,800-plus exhibits on display.

1 P.M. START

Saturday's program will start at 1 p.m. when a parade moves off from Belmont High School to the fair grounds, and official opening of the fair will be at 1.30. Premier Bennett is scheduled to officiate.

Afternoon events will include a gymkhana and Highland dance contest, to start at 1.30 p.m., baby show and 4-H Club demonstrations starting at 3, and presentation of prizes at 4.30.

Fair entries must be picked up between 7.30 and 8.30 p.m., and goods not claimed by exhibitors will be auctioned between 8.30 and 9. A dance at the hall will start at 9.30.

Veterans Stages will make special runs from the Victoria depot to the fair grounds Saturday, leaving the city at 12.15 and 2 p.m.

Fair prizes at the fair this year is a Shetland pony complete with saddle and bridle.

Longshoreman Killed Aboard Pulp Freighter

CROFTON—Crushed by a derrick, at 4.25 p.m. Thursday, only minutes before quitting time, Chemainus longshoreman Norman Urton, 22, was killed instantly at the B.C. Forest Products Ltd. dock while helping to load pulp aboard a ship.

He lived with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. D.A. Urton, Seaview Street, Chemainus, and had been working as a longshoreman for about a year.

The accident occurred aboard the freighter Judith Ann. It was estimated the boom which struck him weighed about four tons. Police are making arrangements for an inquest into the death.

SHAW:

Columbia Power Cheaper

Development of the Columbia River should be undertaken "at once" Victoria Liberal candidate Forrest L. Shaw told a meeting of 40 persons Thursday in Oaklands School.

The former B.C. Power Commission commissioner said the development would mean 2,000,000 horsepower delivered to the lower mainland at two mills, "one of the lowest rates in the world."

He was one of three Liberal candidates to speak contesting the Victoria seat Sept. 12 in the provincial elections. The other two speakers were George Gregory, incumbent MLA, and Victoria Ald. Geoffrey Edgeland.

When the Columbia potential is exhausted, said Mr. Shaw, then was the time to talk about development of the Peace River project.

BETTER RATES

There were other power sites in B.C., he said, that showed a potential higher even than the Peace, at cheaper rates.

The provincial government plan to develop the Peace, he said, was merely because the provincial government wanted "a profit."

The Social Credit vaunted public building program, he continued, did not take into account the fact of the "hungry '30s" when no money was available, or the war years when vital building materials were in short supply.

Original estimate of the new-government ferry, Swartz Bay to Tsawwassen, was $3,000,000 and the ultimate price was close to $13,000,000, he said.

He termed this "a woeful waste of public money."

ROADS FIRST

"We should ask the government of B.C. how this happened, and why."

He said the government seemed to put "miles of highway" black-top ahead of chronic care" in relation to hospital administration, despite the recent government announcement of a chronic care program, and sniped at the $450,000 public contribution to expansion of the Royal Jubilee Hospital on which the government "has done nothing yet" in actual construction.

Mr. Shaw said modernization of provincial mental hospitals was overdue, and Victoria's Wilkinson Road institution "should have been investigated years ago."

A strengthened department investigating export trade was needed to expand B.C. industry.

Tourist Money

"We must expand," he said, to keep economically sound.

He was also critical of the $60,000 yearly provincial budget utilized to attract tourists to B.C.

"Surely to goodness, we can afford to expend more 'out of the yearly $330,000 budget."

Mr. Gregory said one of the "toughest" jobs the present Social Credit government had was "spending all the money Wenner-Gren made available for the (political) campaign."

(Social Credit has endorsed investment and potential investment of Swedish financier Axel Wenner-Gren in B.C.'s northland, including the Peace River hydro project through affiliated companies.)

NOT IN BUDGET

Of Health Minister Martin's announcement of chronic care under BCHIS, he queried "why was it not announced in the budget?"

There was no more money available now than there was then, he said.

He said the Liberal party had been advocating chronic hospital care "year after year".

Mr. Gregory pledged his party's support to the chronic care program, if elected.

The Liberal candidate said the party had a unique position as it was neither the voice of labor, nor the Chamber of Commerce, thus "we don't stand to the extreme right or left".

PENALIZED

Mr. Edgeland, 2½ years chairman of the city's public works committee, said the city was "penalized" by the government on health services to the tune of $88,896 a year.

Saanich, he said, got the same services free of charge as all Saanich health personnel came under the civil service.

"This," he said, "is extremely unfair."

He said also the provincial government had a "pathetic" winter works program and that labor bodies had received no reply to their queries as to what was envisioned.

If elected, we will get together with all—to see jobs are created."

He promised also that the party would "do something" to alleviate taxes on home improvements.

Liberalism, he maintained, in recessions and depressions, had "always" been the party returned by the people because the party was "the middle of the road".

BOMBERS WIN

Mud Stalls Eskimos

WINNIPEG (CP)—Winnipeg Blue Bombers edged Edmonton Eskimos 18-14 Thursday night in a Western Interprovincial Football Union match that proved one thing—the weather can make an awful mess of a football game.

Heavy rain and winds gusting up to 40 miles an hour made holding and ball-handling uncertain and virtually eliminated the passing attack of both clubs.

It was the fourth straight victory for the undefeated

	P	W	L	T	F	A	Pts.
Winnipeg	4	3	0	0	141	85	8
Edmonton	4	2	1	1	100	88	4
Alberta Lions	4	2	1	1	98	99	4
Saskatchewan	3	0	2	1	28	61	1
Calgary	4	0	3	1	64	129	1

Grey Cup champions and Eskimos' first loss after two victories.

But anyone who hoped to compare the strength of the two clubs had to be disappointed. Fumbles and plays that went astray because of a slippery ball played a bigger role in the scoring than strategy.

BLOCK PUNT TRY

Edmonton's leading scorer, quarterback Jackie Parker, counted the first touchdown of the game in the second quarter after Eskimos' Art Walker blocked a punt attempt by Bombers' Charlie Shepard. He was thrown off stride by a bad snap and the kick slid off the side of his foot.

Walker chased the ball down field and was stopped on the Winnipeg 18-yard line. Parker scampered 16 yards around the end to give the Eskimos a 6-1 half-time lead.

On the opening kickoff of the second half, Bombers Gord Rowland boomed the ball deep into the Edmonton end zone with the wind. Cliff Jackson tried to run the ball out but fumbled, and Rick Potter jumped on it for a Winnipeg touchdown.

Later, as the Eskimos battled in the dying minutes to come back, a fumble by Canadian quarterback Don Getty gave Bombers the ball and they ran out the clock.

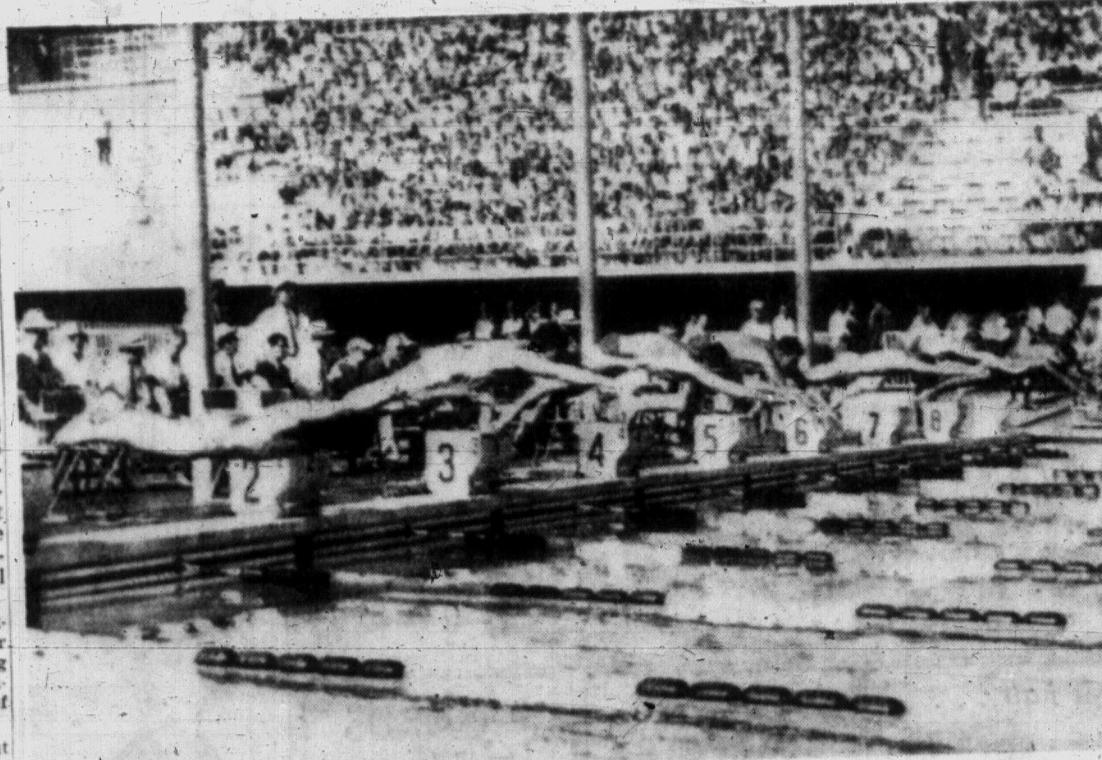

POLO SCORES TD

Quarterback Ken Ploen counted the other Bomber touchdown around the end on a five-yard pass-or-run option play. Fullback Gerry James converted both touchdowns and added a single on a missed field goal attempt. Shepard kicked three singles.

Johnny Bright scored Edmonton's second touchdown, with Parker converting to give the quarterback a seven-point evening. Mike Lashuk, a pillar of strength both ways for Edmonton, kicked a single.

Edmonton led in all offensive statistics but punting and scoring.

OFF AND SWIMMING

Picture of poise, swimmers dive in unison as second heat of men's 100-metre freestyle event gets under way at Rome Olympics today. Two Canadians—Cameron Grout and Dick Pound, both of Montreal—qualified for men's semifinals, while Vancouver's

Mary Stewart qualified for women's semifinal. Two other Vancouver girls—Marg Iwasaki and Judy McHale—failed to qualify in first heats of their events as American and German swimmers set records. (AP Wirephoto.)

Everyone Saw When Beauty Came to See

(From CP-UPI Reports)

ROME—Movie queen Elizabeth Taylor upstaged real European royalty Thursday with an old Hollywood scene-stealing gimmick—cleavage.

There was a crown-studded team of royalty on the 50-yard line for the opening of the 1960 Olympic Games—the Queen of Greece, Crown Prince Albert of Belgium, Prince Axel and Princess Margaretha of Denmark, Prince Harald of Norway, Prince Franz Josef of Liechtenstein and Prince Ghulam Reza of Pahlevi of Iran.

Moments before the opening parade began, spectators in the stands near the dignitaries' box rose to their feet with a murmur and craned their necks—in the other direction.

Liz had arrived with husband Eddie Fisher and her sun-tan was showing.

Spectators fumbled with binoculars. Tourists snapped their cameras. Olympic ushers stumbled over fans' feet and soft-drink peddlers gave the wrong change.

"What's going on down there, a fight?" one German asked.

"No," an Australian drawled, "It's Elizabeth Taylor in the flesh."

A great deal of same, close-examination showed. Liz may have set a new world's record in neck-line plunging at Olympic events.

"We just got in by boat from the States," the actress said. "We wanted to see the opening of the Olympics and maybe some of the sports events too."

Organizers of the games have arranged for scooter transportation between the two large press centres for visiting newspaper men. They are about five minutes apart as the scooter flies.

There are two-wheeled two-seaters for the more daring journalists. On these you ride behind the driver.

The trick for the pilot is to see if he can hit a bump just right and unseat the rider with one jolt. If he does, he gets 20 points and one national pin of his rider's country.

The other vehicle is a three-wheeled scooter with a seat for two in the back.

Burly Ron Taylor, Australian heavyweight boxer, had to take time off from Olympic training Thursday and revert to his real job. Somebody stole Taylor's wallet with more than $500 in it.

He's a Melbourne detective.

While the huge crowd at Olympic Stadium waited for the opening ceremonies to start, a man, stripped to the waist, wearing khaki shorts and in his stocking feet, leaped from the stands and made a circuit of the 400-metre track.

The crowd applauded and laughed. Just as he was about to finish his run, a couple of policemen sprinted across the field after him. He hopped back into the stands and disappeared.

Laszlo Tabori, former Hungarian, star miler, still hopes to get permission to run in the Olympics as a stateless entry. Tabori sought political asylum in the United States after the 1956 Olympics in Melbourne and now makes his home in Santa Clara, Calif.

Olympic officials have ruled he can't compete this year with a country sponsoring him. Tabori still would like to see a change of heart. One suggestion was that he be entered under the flag of the International Olympic Committee.

The Olympic Games opened with ticket sales at the $1,500 mark. Officials said total gate at Melbourne in 1956 was $2,500,000, and at Helsinki in 1952 it was $2,800,000.

Rome officials said if all tickets are sold, $6,400,000 is possible before the games end Sept. 11.

Judging by the number of Communists accompanying their teams, some Communist countries apparently are worried over possibilities that some of their athletes may defect to the West.

The Communists have taken all possible steps to make defections difficult. Czechoslovakia has sent 24 "trainers" and 44 "other officials" along with its 118-member team. Of the Bulgarian contingent of 165, only 108 are active athletes.

EXCLUSIVE report of the 17th Olympiad will be offered Victoria readers at various intervals during Games in Rome by Andy O'Brien (above). The sports editor of Weekend Magazine, featured in The Times every Saturday, is well-known for his expert and colorful reports on major sporting events.

SOVIET MOLLS STEAL SHOW

Poised, But Not Plunging...

ROME (UPI)—Russia's two-year plan to make its women athletes glamorous has paid off. The Soviet girls stole the show in the opening Olympic parade Thursday.

The word got around two years ago that the Russians had decided to come up with some muscle molls with sex appeal. The report was correct.

Girls from every nation—including Canada—swung into the Olympic stadium. Most of them were dressed in trim, dark jackets and conservative pleated skirts. They looked nice, just as efficient secretaries in Toronto, London and Paris look nice. But glamor? No.

Then—enter the Russians. There was a gasp of surprise when the Soviet girls came into the stadium. Shades of Marx, Lenin, Stalin and Khrushchev. Moscow had spent 10 years of training to Rome something that in the Bolshoi ballet, sort of ROME—A cocky 22-year-old steam shovel mechanic from Montreal got Canada off to a winning start in the 1960 Olympic games Thursday and two Montreal swimmers continued the fine showing today.

Canadian paddlers were not so fortunate, failing to qualify in any of the four canoeing events they entered.

Boxer Raoul Sarazin made short work of his first opponent in the light welterweight division, scoring a technical knockout at 1:29 of the first round against Luxembourg's Francois Sowa. Sarazin decked Sowa three times in the brief fight Thursday night before the referee called a halt to the bout.

BALTIMORE PARK NO PARADISE NOW

Booby Trap Injures Visiting Moundsmen

By United Press International

Those Orioles must have planted a booby trap in Baltimore, because it sure isn't a pitcher's paradise any more.

Rival pitchers used to love any fences last year when they hit a total of 109 homers. Only the White Sox hit less. Rookie Jim Gentile accounted for Baltimore's 99th homer of the current season in the firstinning and Triandos' eighthinning blow was the club's 100th. Both came off loser Frank Lary (11-13).

Triandos' hommer assured rookie Chuck Estrada of his 14th victory against eight losses. Estrada allowed only five hits, including a hommer by Charlie Maxwell, and struck out 12.

And Tigers' might not believe it today, but Estrada's right elbow is due for medical attention.

The 22-year-old righthander has been troubled by periodic tenderness in the elbow and X-rays are to be taken today as a precautionary measure.

Washington moved back in to fourth place with 9-0 victory over Kansas City and Boston beat Cleveland, 10-7, in the only other A.L. game scheduled.

In the National League, Chicago Cubs downed the Pirates, 2-1, and Milwaukee Braves shaved Pittsburgh's lead to 6½ games with a 4-2 win over Los Angeles Dodgers. San Francisco Giants defeated Cincinnati, 8-5, while Philadelphia and St. Louis were idle.

ASSISTANTS' CHAMP

TORONTO (CP) — George Knudson, 23-year-old Oakdale assistant, won the Ontario assistants' match-play championship Thursday, defeating Alvia Thompson of Northwood 7 and 5.

10-YEAR DEAL

Mounties Like Brave Proposal

VANCOUVER (CP) — President Nat Bailey of the Vancouver Mounties said Thursday Milwaukee Braves are ready to sign an agreement with the Pacific Coast League team that will guarantee triple "A" baseball here for 10 years.

A tentative agreement has already been reached.

Milwaukee is ready to take over the Vancouver team, presently debt-ridden and floundering in seventh place in the eight-team PCL, but the proposal must be put to shareholders of the Mounties.

Milwaukee proposes to pay the Mounties $50,000 immedately to pay off the club's debts, it was learned. This would be made up of a $34,000 payment for the Vancouver franchise and a $16,000 no-interest loan.

Vancouver would become the No. 1 farm club of the Braves and would have first choice on any Milwaukee players.

Vancouver lost $16,000 in 1959 and stands to lose $50,000 this year, a situation that brought about the negotiations for an agreement with Milwaukee.

Early this year, Baltimore Orioles cancelled out of a working agreement with the Mounties.

'REAL PICTURE OF GREAT PROVINCE'

'Lush, Green' Island Captures Travel Writer

All in Ghana Must Join Trade Unions

ACCRA, Ghana (UPI)—Parliament approved legislation Thursday night transforming this West African nation into a gigantic closed shop in which no one is allowed to strike.

An amendment to the Industrial Relations Act, adopted after only 75 minutes' debate, made union membership compulsory for all of Ghana's workers. Anyone who is not now a member of a union will have to join within a month, after which it will be an "unfair labor practice" for an employer to hire a non-union worker.

The act in its original form banned strikes. The amendment defined strikes as including slowdowns and other "means of inducing employers to agree with workers' demands" as well as actual work stoppages.

Vancouver is only the "gateway" to British Columbia, says Miss Beverly Gray, travel editor of the Toronto Globe and Mail. "I had been to Vancouver before—but I had to see Vancouver Island and the wonders of the north to get a real picture of this great province."

Miss Gray was able to spend 10 days touring the province after winning a travel writing contest promoted by the B.C. Recreation Department in conjunction with the Canadian Journalist and Press Photographer, a Toronto magazine.

She won a 10-day—all-expenses-paid tour for herself and her sister, Miss Lillian Gray of Calgary, plus a prize of $250.

On the last day of their 2,000-mile tour the sisters called at The Times office Thursday and were almost lyrical about what they had seen.

UNSURPASSED

"The Vancouver Island scenery is unsurpassed anywhere," said Miss Beverly Gray. "It is lush, green and beautiful and I don't think I could ever get tired of it."

Touring the Cariboo, the sisters visited Barkerville, the old gold-mining town which is now being restored as a museum by the B.C. government.

"It could become B.C.'s most important tourist attraction."

The visitors were flown out to Vancouver over Trans-Canada Airlines, but travelled around the province in a car accompanied by Miss Audrey McCormick, travel counsellor to the B.C. Travel Bureau.

CITY TOUR

On a tour of Victoria they were escorted by Ron Gadsby of the recreation department and Harry Harrod of the travel bureau.

They flew back to Toronto late Thursday.

Entries for the 1961 travel writing contest close Dec. 31. If a B.C. writer wins it he will receive two tickets for an all-expenses-paid tour of eastern Canada plus a $250 prize.

Labor Tie Broken

LONDON (UPI)—The London newspaper Daily Herald, until Thursday bound by a Trades Union Congress agreement to support Laborite policies, proclaimed its editorial independence today.

It said in a front page editorial that from today the newspaper "speaks its mind with full independence" but pledged continued allegiance to the Labor movement.

Barnyard Serenade for Ottawa

If the wind is right—or wrong, depending upon where you live in Ottawa—drowsy residents of the nation's capital can hear the roosters sounding off from as far away as a mile and a half.

That's what residents of Ottawa who live within 20 blocks of the central experimental farm's huge poultry pen, have found to their sorrow.

Just as the sun starts peaking over the horizon the roosters, all 5,000 of them, stand on their toes, stretch, and let loose with their collective crow.

It is so bad that Dr. E. S. Merritt, of the genetics section of the farm's animal research institute, has heard that some sleepy Ottawa people are threatening to invoke the city's anti-noise bylaw.

Dr. Merritt was understanding and sympathetic to the ject at the farm.

They had been hoping that plights of the Ottawa house-holders who have to listen to Ottawa people near the farm would get accustomed to all the crowing and crowing. It will be three or four years before they can move the big flock out to a new livestock and poultry annex beyond the residential areas.

Surprisingly enough residents near the farm and beyond report that after a while—some weeks—you become accustomed to the crowing, especially if you are a heavy sleeper.

BIBLE-TOTING POLITICOS TAUNTED AT RALLY

"Certain sanctimonious individuals" got a poke from CCF'er Harold Winch Thursday night.

Not naming anyone, the Vancouver East MP said these persons "go on a political platform with a Bible in their hand; in every speech they've got to bring God into it if they can."

Later in a reference to Highways Minister P. A. Gagliardi, Mr. Winch called him "no fool" in billing the federal government for 90 per cent of the toughest highway construction.

Ottawa pays half of most sections of the Trans-Canada Highway, 90 per cent for one tenth.

"He charges the federal government for the one tenth that was built through the mountains at $1 million a mile."

NO 'SLUSH FUND'

Union Money Denied by CCF

Claims that there's a big union slush fund behind the could be remedied by planning CCF are simply nonsense," said Saanich candidate Pat Thomas.

The charge was made in Vancouver by Social Credit candidate Thomas Bate.

Mr. Thomas said another party—he didn't name Social Credit—"is spending more than $1,000 in one issue of a newspaper in Victoria and that's multiplied by the two or three weeks of the campaign."

"Did anyone come to your door and ask for that kind of money?" he asked. "And if they didn't, where do they get it?"

"They shouldn't ask us." But labor slush fund was "nonsense".

Other parties are "playing loose with the electorate" he said. The CCF was presenting a policy based on study and thought.

"Since the hydro commission was organized it has taken over 20 companies," he said. "The rates in all the districts concerned have been reduced in all instances."

Sommers' Case Labelled 'Disgrace to Democracy'

CRANBROOK (CP) — Liberal Leader Ray Perrault said Thursday night the Sommers' case definitely is an issue in the provincial election campaign.

He told 100 cheering supporters at a meeting here the people of B.C. "will not forget what happened in this case." It was a "disgrace to democracy."

Mr. Perrault said the Liberal party was vigorously attacked by the Social Credit government for questioning the government's morality when allegations first were made against Robert E. Sommers, then lands and forests minister.

"But now we are vindicated," he said.

While he was speaking, Mr. Perrault received details of the care plan for the chronical ill announced Thursday by the government.

"The Socreds promised this on the eve of the 1953 and 1956 elections, and they won't get away with this sort of thing again," he said.

He went on to outline the Liberal party's health policy.

Mr. Perrault said the Liberals would extend medical insurance coverage to those not now covered by MSA; but is opposed to compulsory state medicine. He opposed an interference in doctor-patient relationships and opening confidential dental medical files to the government.

Infant 'Flies' As Plane Drops

TULSA, Okla. (UPI)—Four persons were injured Thursday night when a Trans-World Airlines Constellation with 48 passengers and a crew of five ran into severe air turbulence over Kansas.

The big plane made an unscheduled landing at Tulsa where three passengers and a stewardess were taken to a hospital for treatment.

One of the passengers, Jay Wells, a disc jockey, said there had been no warning of severe air turbulence but the pilot had cautioned the passengers to fasten their seat belts when they entered a storm front over Chanute, Kan.

"We had just passed into the cloud," Wells said, "when the plane took a sudden drop of 500 feet. We then hit an updraft as the plane was buffeted by the winds."

"There were two babies on board. One was tossed from his mother's arms and landed on another passenger's lap but was not injured. A woman flew up in the air and hit the plane's ceiling. Most of the other passengers were just shaken up."

Wells said it was "just like going over a roller coaster—complete with screams."

Total Wreck As Car Hurts Into Viaduct

Four Injured In Duncan Crash

Four persons were injured, at least one seriously, in the spectacular crash of a late model sedan at about 9:30 a.m. today two miles north of Duncan.

Two men and two women were involved, and the condition of one of the women, who was not identified, was described as "less than fair." Others were reported by Duncan hospital officials as "not critical."

Victims, all from Port Alberni, were identified tentatively as:

John Molner, 607 Butte St., believed owner and driver of the car involved.

Thomas Robertson and his wife, Helen, 214 North Second Avenue.

Mrs. Berit Trapp, 214 North Second Avenue.

COURT WITNESSES

The four, all described as middle-aged, were on their way to Victoria where they were scheduled to act as witnesses at a preliminary hearing in city police court this morning.

They were taken to King's Daughters' Hospital, and were still undergoing examination at press time.

Host to the races will be the Royal Victoria Yacht Club.

MORE YACHTS

Although the Seattle club is over 30 strong and was the first to be formed in the Pacific Northwest, Victoria now has 10 Cub and next year it is expected there will be at least 16, which will constitute the largest one-class design fleet on the Is.

All the Victoria yachts, except one, have been built or are being built by owners themselves. The first Cub was "Panic," built five years ago by Mr. Inglis.

The last one built was Frank Piddington's "Cynthia," named after Victoria Times cartoonist Sid Barron's famed character.

The Social Credit government, elected on a promise of economy and efficiency, has proved itself guilty of "the wildest spending the country has ever seen," a Liberal candidate charged Thursday night.

Alan B. Macfarlane, running the Oak Bay seat in the legislature last held by the late Archie Gibbs, cited government figures in his contention that they had overspent by more than $37,000,000 in eight B.C. Toll Highways and Bridges Authority projects.

Original estimates called for a total outlay of $57,700,000 on the projects but at least $95,040,000 was spent on them and even this figure may go higher when the final cost of the Second Narrows Bridge is revealed.

EFFICIENCY?

"Can this be called economy with efficiency?" Mr. Macfarlane asked. "On the contrary, he shows this government has been guilty of the wildest spending this country has ever seen."

He listed these projects to back his contentions, with original government estimates in brackets followed by actual costs:

Deas Island tunnel ($17,000,000) $29,020,000; Oak Street-

Deas Island highway ($3,720,000) $4,760,000; Oak Street bridge ($5,180,000) $7,280,000;

Nelson bridge ($3,000,000) $4,570,000; Kelowna-West Bank bridge ($8,000,000) $8,860,000.

Aggasiz - Rosedale bridge ($2,000,000) $4,550,000; Tsawwassen-Swartz Bay ferry system ($3,000,000) $13,000,00; and the Second Narrows bridge ($15,800,000) which was revised to a $23,000,000 estimate in 1959 and despite questions asked in the 1960 session of the legislature the final cost still is unknown.

ZIG 'N' ZAG FINE WEEKEND IN THE BAG

Fine weather at the weather ship, which showed every sign Thursday of digging to the south and missing Victoria entirely, has since zagged and now is beheaded heading this way.

Weatherman John Rogalsky said the change will mean a little more sunshine late today, little or no rain and more sunshine Saturday, and even more improvement on Sunday.

"There is nothing on the chart that could upset this trend," the weatherman said. "We can be hopeful for a nice weekend."

First Step To Develop Colwood Park

The 30-year-old Colwood racetrack is being resurrected for a Labor Day meet of racing cars.

Members of the B.C. Automotive Sports Association and the Vancouver Island Track Roadster Association are using a bulldozer and grader to get the former horse racing track into condition.

Gun emplacements and foxholes, put there for training when the site was an army camp, are being filled in.

The project marks the start of developing the site into a major fair ground by B.C. Agriculture Association which holds a lease on the property.

Ian McCaul, BCAA secretary-manager, said the track improvement "is the beginning of participation by community organizations in building the Colwood park property into something worthwhile—something everyone in the lower Vancouver Island area will be able to use and enjoy."

GROUND SURVEY

The improvement follows a ground survey of the 140-acre property about a month ago to which Ald. Geoffrey Edgeworth, BCAA president, invited all community organizations to show them how they could make use of the site.

About 22 sprint cars and 20 stock cars are expected to participate in the Labor Day meet, including some 14 sprint cars from the U.S.

Next event planned for the Colwood fair ground property is a field day and public picnic Sept. 18 to familiarize Greater Victorians with the property fronting on the Old Island Highway and Belmont Road.

The public picnic, originally planned for this weekend, was postponed to avoid a clash with the Luxton fair that opened today.

ASK The TIMES

Q. Where can one get a warrant to fly the Canadian Blue Ensign and the Blue Ensign (Navy Reserve) as a private flag? R.F.T.

A. The flags you mention are one and the same. Owner of a yacht belonging to a Royal yacht club, squadron, or the Royal Canadian Naval Sailing Association may be granted permission to wear the Canadian Blue Ensign on a yacht by the defence minister if he is a Canadian citizen or British subject; the net tonnage is two tons or more; the applicant is owner of the yacht; the owner is in good standing and the yacht is attached to the club or squadron. Applications should be forwarded through the secretary concerned.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to The Times. Address to "Ask The Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums or legal problems. Nor will it accept valuable old coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to dealers.

7 Per Cent More Pupils To Register

Close to 23,000 youngsters will go back to 49 schools in Greater Victoria school district Sept. 6 after a 10-week vacation.

Enrolment is expected to be up about 7 per cent and an extra 47 teachers will be on hand in the 739-member teaching staff to take care of the increase.

The new term will see opening of the Gordon Head Junior High School, last school construction under the current building bylaw.

For pupils in Grades 7 to 12 who have moved into District 61 during the summer from outside areas, and for those who have moved within the district, registration will be held early.

All high schools will be open Monday to Wednesday from 10 a.m. to noon and 1 p.m. to 3 p.m. to allow them to plan courses for the coming school year.

But new elementary school pupils will register Sept. 6.

MUSEUM LURES VISITORS

It figures are a criterion for judging tourist interest in Victoria's various show places, then the provincial museum ranks as one of the most popular attractions.

Based on registrations and daily counts, museum officials estimated today that about 111,000 people have visited the building since June 1.

It has averaged out to about 37,000 visitors during the summer months.

Airline Travel Hit By Ferries

A Trans-Canada Airlines official here today admitted that the new government ferry service had eaten into the federal crown corporation's business.

"The passenger count for the summer months show a 30 per cent drop but not all of this is due to the ferries," he said.

A slowdown in economic conditions and late start of the tourist rush this season also were factors, he said.

He said the B.C. ferries "certainly have affected" volume of air traffic between Victoria and Vancouver, "but it still is too early to say to what extent."

The official pointed out that the ferries began operating during the vacation period—when more people would be expected to take a boat trip with their car rather than fly over the strait.

"We expect the business reduction to ease during the winter months but we'll have to wait and see before we know for sure."

New 'Brain Child' Bound To Win Women's Favor

By PENNY SAVER

Sometimes I'm convinced that behind every new idea manufacturers come up with there must be a woman! Certainly the new package of crushed cornflake crumbs brought out by one leading cereal firm will win approval from every housewife.

For 19 cents you can now buy a box containing 6½ ounces of crumbs, all ready for use. These are perfect when used as a crust on pies that have instant pudding fillings and are ideal for use in meat loaves, patties, croquettes and casseroles. Used on chops, fish or chicken, the crust they form is so crisp and golden your family will be "sold" even before they taste the first bite!

Let's face it—feeding a growing family is tough on the meat budget. Here, again, these crumbs will come to your rescue. Marvelous meat-stretchers, half a cup of crumbs to each pound of meat will slash the cost of meat to suit anyone's purse.

Another new aid that is on sale in Victoria is a cooking fat that can be sprayed on to pans and broilers and is good for all foods, and particularly for pastries.

Easy to use, you simply hold container about 10 inches from the unheated, dry surface of your pan or broiler, spray for five or six seconds, using a circular motion and your pan is ready to use.

Fat will prevent any sticking and with this new spray there is no danger of smoke. One thing that should be stressed—it's a pure vegetable product.

Those that keep a wary eye on calories will be pleased to learn that spray has a very low calorie count. If you're interested in trying it, there's a "special" on in a downtown store that will allow you to buy two 5-ounce cans for 99 cents. Another good feature—it does not require refrigeration.

DEAR ABBY

You Are Not a Man Yet, My Son!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am a man my sister's house for supper way and it is perfectly all by the laws of nature as well last night and her husband right. I gave their little boy the Dickens for eating fresh fruit from the ice box without washing it first. I didn't want to say anything at the time, but I used to eat plums and apples right off the trees many years ago and I never died. How come?

FRIENDLY NEIGHBOR DEAR FRIENDLY: Year's ago fruit farmers (and growers) did not use insect sprays as profusely as they do today.

The fruit should be washed BEFORE it is put in the "ice box." Mamma should have caught the Dickens.

DEAR ABBY: Please settle an argument once and for all.

I was taught that teen-agers did not rush to answer the telephone when elders were around. My wife's teen-aged nieces and nephews always answer the phone in my home even if we are in the same room. When we are visiting their home, they literally race for the phone when it rings, elbowing each other out of the way. I say it is bad manners and should not be tolerated. I am told teen-agers behave this way.

Brunette or Brownette? One Is Darker Shade

Q. "I am confused. Please tell me the difference between brownette and brunet."

A. Brownette takes in the brown shades while we think of brunettes as darker—very dark or black hair.

O. "Is there any treatment to lose the fatty skin on the face? How can I make it firm?"

A. I guess you really mean the folded skin or loose skin.

Many readers have found that my facial exercises help. Hormone creams also are effective but the effect is temporary and they must be used continually.

Q. "I never have any trouble with my hair when I am pregnant. Dandruff disappears and my hair has more gloss. I eat the same diet when I am pregnant and when I am not. Why does this difference happen?"

A. I imagine your doctor will tell you that it is due to a change in your hormone set up.

Q. "Is there an exercise to enlarge the wrists and ankles?"

A. Swimming develops muscles and others that it is slimming. Which is correct?

A. Both swimming firms and develops lovely curves while it decreases fatty deposits. It does not develop bony muscles. It is a mild exercise, unless indulged in on a competitive basis, since the body weight is supported by water. This is why it is often allowed by physicians when other exercise is outlawed. That is also why it is a splendid exercise for older people.

ROUND, ABOUT

Summerland Packing Shed Busy Beehive

By JUDY NICHOLSON

When I was in the Okanagan Valley last week with a group of press, radio, television and home economics women, on a tour hosted by the provincial department of agriculture, one of our most interesting stops was at the Summerland Co-operative Growers' Nicholson packing house.

It is one of 48 such packing houses in the valley where fruit is delivered, graded, packed, stored and shipped.

For six months (the busiest of the year), cherries, pears, peaches, apples and other fruits go through the packing house.

I saw how the fruit—that day it was pears—is put through solution of soda ash for protection, and washed.

On a rotating belt, fruit then goes through a room where it is hand graded. Extra fancy and fancy types are chosen for the market, while C grade is put on a separate belt for delivery to processors.

A pear is chosen for the fresh market; if it is a maximum width of two-and-one-quarter inches across the base, firm and unblemished.

SPEEDY WORK

From the grading room, fruit passes on to the packing shed where employees wrap each piece in light paper and pack closely into wood or cardboard boxes.

I timed one packer and she wrapped 34 pears to the minute!

Tops of boxes are nailed or clamped down on the cases by machine. Boxes are weighed and shipped off on trucks to the markets.

Interesting part of this industry is the careful and skillful manner in which each employee works, handling his or her job with a professional touch.

B.C. Fruit Growers Association is made up of 3,600 fruit growers. Members belong to "locals" which are organized into district councils in the general areas, north, central and south. This co-operation and co-operative method in the growing of fruit is of benefit to all.

In this way problems in the fruit industry can be dealt with by special committees in the association, working along with the orchardist.

GIRLS DO BETTER THAN MEN

HALIFAX (CP) — The attendants at a service station operated by Harry Aisthorpe draw admiring looks from the motorists they serve.

Mrs. Shirley Taggart, 18, and Monica MacNeil, 20, are the first members of their sex since the Second World War to man the gasoline pumps and do light mechanical work at a Halifax service station.

"They do a better job than men," Mr. Aisthorpe asserts. "They bring in more trade, and they are more reliable."

The girls like it, too. "We both enjoy it," said Mrs. Taggart, whose husband is in the navy.

Appointment

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Nielsen of Vancouver have been in Victoria this week, visiting Mrs. Nielsen's mother, Mrs. Clodagh Dowling, 1781 McRae Avenue, before going on to Ann Arbor, Mich. Mrs. Nielsen has been granted a teaching scholarship in the department of philosophy at University of Michigan.

Young Mark William Mackereth, seated on the knee of his maternal great-grandmother, Mrs. Mabel Allison, is the sixth generation of his family born in Canada. On both sides of his family there are four generations, all living in Victoria. Picture shows, seated, from the left: Mrs. Carl Allison, maternal grandmother; the baby's father, William Mackereth;

OF PERSONAL INTEREST

Christening In Kerrisdale

Of interest in Victoria and on the mainland will be the christening this Sunday in St. Mary's Anglican Church, Kerrisdale of Kathleen Anne, young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Perry Creighton of Victoria. Baby, who is six months old, will be christened in the same church where her mother was baptized and married. Maternal grandparents for the child are Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Mason of Vancouver and her paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Creighton of Toronto. Godparents will be Miss Barbara Scott, Mr. Peter MacInnes, and Mr. Dennis Mason. Miss Sandra Scott will stand proxy for Miss Barbara Scott who is presently in Europe. Great-grandmothers are Mr. J. A. Perry, Toronto; Mrs. J. Mason, Vancouver and Mrs. B. A. Mabee, Halifax, who will attend the christening. Capt. Avard McCulloch, Kelowna is great-great-grandfather. Also coming from Halifax for the ceremony will be Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Dennis, Miss Dixie Dennis and Mr. Bill Dennis. Tea will follow the ceremony at home of the maternal grandparents.

Winnipeg Visitors

Mr. and Mrs. N. E. Dale of Binsler Road have as their house guests their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Pollock and Mr. and Mrs. Mac McKinnis of Winnipeg.

Visiting Parents

Lieut. J. W. Burnett RCN and Mrs. Burnett accompanied by their children Tolson, Susan and Judy are presently visiting Lieut. Burnett's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Burnett, at their home on Walter Avenue. The family have recently returned from Plymouth, Eng., where Lieut. Burnett was stationed for 18 months. On leaving Victoria, the Burnetts will make their home in Ottawa.

Family Guests

Mr. and Mrs. James Burchett have as their guests at their home on Arbutus Road, their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Roger Hemeon of Calgary. With them for the two-week visit are their two children, Jade and Christopher. Mrs. Hemeon is the former Mary Burchett of this city.

Motor Trip

Mrs. W. D. Morgan has returned to her home at 1230 Victoria Avenue after a seven-week visit in Ontario. While in the east, Mrs. Morgan motored to Barrie, Toronto, Peterborough, Stratford and Winnipeg.

From Regina

Mr. and Mrs. Jonathan Johnson of Regina are presently in Victoria. While here, they will attend the marriage this Saturday of their niece, Miss Audrey Hogg, and Mr. Anthony D'Arcy D. Morris which will be held in Christ Church Cathedral. Arriving tonight for the wedding will be Mr. and Mrs. Norman Tindall also of Regina.

Little Cynthia Joan Collins was christened in St. Luke's Anglican Church last Sunday at 2:30 p.m., with her great-uncle, Rev. A. C. McCullum, Kingston, Ont., officiating. She wore a christening robe five generations old. Godparents are Mr. and Mrs. Donald Straith and Mrs. George Collins, Chapleau, Ont., for whom Miss Anne Keenlyside stood proxy. Following the service a tea was held at the Sea View Road home of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Sylvester. Paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Collins of Sault Ste. Marie, Ont. Baby's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Allen R. Collins, 1443 Wende Road. Mrs. Collins is the former Miss Pamela Colby of this city.

Gloria Green Married On Anniversaries Day

Her parents and her sister's wedding anniversary was the day chosen by Miss Gloria Doreen Green for her recent marriage to William Allen McClusky. First United Church was setting for the wedding that united the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Green of Victoria and the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Lee of Cranbrook. Rev. Leighton Straight conducted the candlelight ceremony.

Large basket of gladioli decorated the church and pews were marked with white satin ribbon roses on tables.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a floor-length gown of Chantilly lace posed over nylon and satin. A sabrina scalloped neckline enhanced the fitted lace bodice. Hooped skirt was appliquéd with large lace and sequin flowers. Bride wore matching mitts and carried a bouquet of red roses, carnations, stephanotis and heather which was imported from Scotland. Her finger-tip veil cascaded from a tiara of brilliants.

Sister of the bride, Mrs. Kenneth Bury was matron of honor. She wore a turquoise nylon gown, floral headpiece and carried a bouquet of mauve gladioli and cream roses.

ATTENDANTS

Mrs. Kenneth Stokes, and Mrs. Don Richardson, bridesmaids, wore pink and pale yellow dresses respectively. They had floral headpieces and carried bouquets of deep pink roses and pink gladioli and yellow roses and yellow gladioli. Flower girl, Cathy Bury wore a frock in pale pink and white and carried a bouquet of pink roses. Her brother, David Bury, was her escort.

E. Fortanaso was best man and ushers were Kenneth Bury and Bob Niel. A four-tier cake, made by the bride's mother and decorated by her father centred the bride's table at a reception in the Odd Fellows Hall. Pink and white roses decorated the table. W. Andrews proposed the toast.

Bride's mother wore a dusty pink lace dress, beige accessories and corsage of pink roses. Assisting in receiving guests for the groom's mother who could not be present, was his cousin, Mrs. E. Fortanaso wearing a green and white dress, white accessories and corsage.

Leaving on a honeymoon to the United States and interior of British Columbia, the bride wore a delphinium blue Blin and Blin suit, hat in tone and white accessories. Her corsage was an orchid. Couple will live in Victoria.

Hour-Long Film on Olympic Games Opening at 9 on C-7, 11, 12

By PHIL LEE, Times TV Editor

SINCE THE FIRST SHOT was fired on Fort Sumter in April of 1861 the U.S. Civil War possibly has spawned more stories, novels, films and plays than any other single war in history. If it hasn't then surely it must be regarded as a top contender.

Wednesday night Steel Hour also went to the seemingly inexhaustible blue-grey arsenal for "Bride of the Fox," allegedly based on an actual incident. Actual or not it made pretty fair viewing as it was packed with suspense and the acting was of tolerable quality.

Adapted by Kay Arthur from a play by Budd Fisher and Barry Hyams "Bride of the Fox" told about Tom Hines who has been near death so often as a Confederate spy that he feels as though only marriage with his sweetheart Nancy will convince him that he isn't traversing the unreal, half-and-half shadows of limbo. Barriers against his achieving realization of his desire, however, are distressingly high and wide.

Nancy's home in Covington, Ky., is surrounded by Union troops commanded by Col. Barker who is renowned as a man skilled in building better mousetraps.

The pace of the piece is nicely maintained by director Medford who has keen perception for the inducements of excitement through the unpredictability of its ebb and flow. First Nancy is picked up by Barker and sent to a convent as bait for his trap. However Tom Hines, no stranger to all manner of snares, soon has tripped it and stolen the bait from under their very noses.

The scene next moves to the home of loyal friends Sam and Mary Thomas who promptly hide Tom. But just in time. Along comes the indomitable Barker and his rifle-carrying troops. By the time they have thrust their bayonets into every conceivable place that might hide Hines it would seem as though the tiniest of mice would be dead.

Of course in the end love emerges triumphant and most viewers would be content to have it no other way.

AS TOM HINES, Richard Kiley demonstrated again that he is an actor of merit. The part, demanding calm authority well spiced with daring also required a man emotionally and mentally fatigued to a point of a nervous breakdown. It was not easy but Kiley made it convincing.

Also good were Alan Baxter as Col. Barker, Shepard Strudwick as Rev. Butler and Henderson Forsythe and Ruth White as the Thomases. Anna Balin, remembered for her competency in the motion picture "From the Terrace," was excellent in addition to being pleasing to the eyes.

Of course it all wasn't perfect. For instance some viewers might easily have become lost in the first few minutes of the play when the lines between North and South, between antagonists and protagonists were unnecessarily blurred.

On the other hand I may be biased about Steel hour. But why not? Who else gives us new, long-running dramas 12 months of the year. It deserves bias.

Jail Term Tailored To Job Opportunity

Two young men jailed in Saanich police court Thursday each were given nine-month terms so they would be released at start of the "best employment season."

William James Hilton, 19, of 1347 Gladstone, were found guilty of possessing burglar tools — two heavy duty screwdrivers — after a padlock had been pried from a Gorge area store.

NO RECORD.

Lynch, with no previous record, was put on probation for a year when sentence was imposed.

"You are not off the hook," Mr. Byers told him, pointing out he must behave.

"I am prepared to believe that you are the weaker character (as indicated in a probation report) and have been led by your companion, who knows more about crime than you will ever know, I hope."

Hilton's sentence was for breaking and entering Tillicum Outdoor Theatre, where ponce round doors forced and Hilton hiding in a women's washroom.

AT MOTEL

'Prowling' Brings 3 Months

A 34-year-old View Royal woman with a 20-year criminal record was sentenced in Saanich police court Thursday to three months in jail for prowling at night.

"Anything to say about that list?" Deputy Magistrate J. A. Byers asked her after prosecutor Kenneth Murphy read the convictions.

"No," she smiled. "It's all right."

Patricia Bell, of Glentana Street, was arrested at 3:45 a.m. Wednesday at San Sebastian Auto Court, 51 Gorge West, and pleaded guilty to wilful damage and intoxication charges in city police court Thursday.

Helen Lambert was discovered by police at the home of Ormond Norbert, 553 David, where a window valued at $15.55 had been smashed.

They quoted the accused as saying she had smashed the glass with a broom handle because "she was mad at the occupants" who had left.

Deputy Magistrate J. A. Byers fined the woman $35 or seven days for wilful damage, ordered her to pay for repairs or spend another five days in jail, and sentenced her to 20 days in jail for being drunk in a public place.

IT'S OFFICIAL CPR QUILTS IN FALL

The Victoria-Vancouver-Seattle triangle service will be cancelled for the winter months starting Sept. 25, the CPR announced Thursday.

A CPR spokesman said that the Princess Elaine likely will be withdrawn from service for the winter which means the end of direct boat service between the two cities. Last winter she provided a daily round-trip service between Victoria and Vancouver.

Daily service between Nanaimo and Vancouver during the winter will be provided by the train ferry Princess of Vancouver, Princess of Nanaimo, and the Princess Patricia or her sister ship, Princess Marguerite. Eight daily trips are planned.

BUT NEWSPAPER RELENTS

'Call, 'Hottentot' Mister? Never!'

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — The newspaper Star says, "small but nonetheless less psychologically significant, of the spirit of change that is slowly entering into the race attitudes of responsible men and women in South Africa."

The Star also notes that the department of Railways has asked its employees not to use "such appellations towards the blacks as Hottentots and kaffirs".

The South African information service said in New York that The Star and most other English-language papers in the country used the "mister" form. A spokesman said the practice is less widespread among Afrikaans language publications although Cape Town adopted the style two or three years ago.

Cyclist Dies After Olympic Race

ROME (AP) — Knud Jensen, 23-year-old Danish cyclist, died today after he had competed in the 100-kilometre (62-mile) time trials.

He was the first fatality during the 1960 Olympic Games.

Saint Eugenie Hospital authorities said the young athlete died after a haemorrhage of the brain.

American on RCMP 'Wanted' List

OTTAWA (CP) — A 31-year-old United States citizen sought by police for murder has been added to the RCMP's list of most-wanted men at the request of the FBI.

He is Joseph Corbett, alias James Barron, alias Charles Osborn, alias Walter and William Osborne, a native of Seattle, Wash., believed to be in Canada.

Burega to Play for Stampeders

CALGARY (CP) — Defenceman Bill Burega has been signed by the Calgary Stampeders of the Western Hockey League.

Dynamite Blasts CPR Track

SHOREACRES, B.C. (CP) — A dynamite explosion ripped out a short stretch of CPR track near here Thursday, it has been learned.

In the past, explosions of this kind have often been linked with the radical Sons of Freedom Doukhobor sect.

Boy Saxophonist Beats Union

TORONTO (CP) — The Toronto Musicians' Association was ordered today to accept six-year-old Attila Gaamb, boy saxophonist, into its membership and thus allow him to collect full fee from the Canadian National Exhibition.

Medical Care Bill Passes in U.S.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House today passed compromise legislation to provide government-financed medical care for persons over 65 not having financial resources to pay for needed treatment.

Russia Expels U.S. Diplomat

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union today expelled George Payne Winters, Jr., first secretary of the U.S. Embassy, for alleged activities "incompatible with his diplomatic status."

The move against Winters was linked with the 1959 ouster of U.S. Embassy security officer R. A. Langelli, whom the Soviets said then was caught "red-handed" in intelligence activities in Moscow.

Today's action said investigation following the case of the arrested American agent — apparently referring to Langelli, but not specifically saying so — established the complicity of other American officials here, particularly Winters.

The expulsion of Winters, who headed the embassy's economic section, came only 11 days after the departure of expelled U.S. air attaché Col. Edwin Kirton. It also followed the recent expulsion of Soviet first secretary Ivanov from the Soviet Embassy in Washington.

Winters, who has been here since June, 1958, refused to comment on his expulsion. He had already been scheduled to leave his post here next month.

His departure plans still were undecided. He was working on travel reservations today, after hearing of the expulsion order.

Mrs. Powers In Paris

PARIS (UPI) — Mrs. Barbara Powers, wife of the American U-2 pilot convicted of espionage in Russia, arrived white-faced and shaken today on her way home to Georgia.

"I've made up my mind absolutely not to say a thing," she said shortly after stepping off a Sabena airliner. She will rest here for a few days.

Mrs. Powers was dressed as if in mourning in a black dress and a wide-brimmed black hat which shadowed her face. She carried a black satin coat over her arm.

Mrs. Powers saw her husband alone for about four hours Thursday in her last meeting with him.

ALLIANCE SHOULD BE ENDED SAYS U.K. WEEKLY

'NATO Meaningless Symbol'

LONDON (CP) — A serious British magazine says NATO has served its purpose and should be wound up.

"NATO today has become a meaningless symbol," says The Spectator, an independent weekly. "It is time it was definitely interred."

The comment comes in an article by Col. Patrick Lort-Phillips, a prominent member of the Liberal party who was a wartime commander in Normandy.

LUMUMBA DEMANDS UN TROOPS LEAVE

Tension Mounts In Congo Crisis

Times News Services

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo — Premier Patrice Lumumba said today that the United Nations force must pull out of the Congo "the moment all Belgians have left."

Lumumba told a press conference that his government did not want a Belgian occupation replaced by a United Nations occupation.

The Congolese leader spoke to reporters as tension mounted here following a clash between police and demonstrators Thursday outside a hall where representatives of independent African states are meeting.

FULFIL PROMISE

Lumumba called on UN Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold to fulfil his promise to ensure the total withdrawal of all Belgian troops from the Congo within eight days.

"If in eight days the troops are not all gone we shall see who is acting in good faith and who is trying to sabotage

WIRE BRIEFS

Shopper Killed in Algiers Blast

ALGIERS (UPI) — A Moslem rebel terrorist dropped a grenade in a crowded street market today, killing one shopper and wounding 25 others, 15 of them seriously.

U.S. Breaks With Dominicans

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States broke diplomatic relations with the Dominican Republic today and requested recall of the Dominican diplomatic mission here.

Fists Fly in South Korea Assembly

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — Factional strife within the dominant Democratic party of Premier John Chang erupted into a fist-swinging brawl in the South Korean assembly today. Three anti-Chang lawmakers beat and manhandled Transportation Minister Chung Hun-joo.

U.K. Seamen Will Continue Strike

LIVERPOOL, Eng. (UPI) — More than 1,000 seamen voted today to continue a wildcat strike protesting their union's acceptance of an 11-shilling-a-week pay increase, which they consider inadequate.

Cuba Seizes Swift Plant

HAVANA, Cuba (UPI) — Premier Fidel Castro's militia today seized the U.S.-owned Swift and Company meat packing firm, whose investment in Cuba is worth $5,500,000.

'DICTATOR'

eign Minister Raul Roa clearly indicated the Castro regime has no intention of giving up its Communists.

Roa, he said, made it clear the Castro regime will continue to place reliance on the political and military help of the Sino-Soviet bloc, and will not submit itself to the principles and disciplines of the Inter-American system.

Herter said U.S. concern over Castro government policies "has been increased by the contempt which has been expressed by Roa for the principles and institutions of representative democracy and for the commitments assumed by Cuba at Santiago, Chile, only a year ago."

He called on Cuba to renounce Communist aid and accept free elections.

WINTERS

Winters, 40, is a bachelor. He attended Colorado College, Princeton, Columbia and Georgetown universities and served in the U.S. Navy. He was on the embassy staff here in 1947, then resigned to take a job as consultant with the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission. He then rejoined the foreign service after his AEC service.

DENVER (UPI) — The mother of a U.S. embassy official, George Winters, who was expelled from the Soviet Union today, said her son was employed by the Central Intelligence Agency at one time.

In Washington, the CIA declined comment.
